EHS Design's Brett Conway Appointed to Seattle's Southeast Design Review Board

SEATTLE, Wash., (May 9, 2008) – The design and architecture firm, EHS Design, announced that its Chief Operating Officer Brett Conway, AIA, NCARB has been appointed by the Mayor and City Council to the City of Seattle's Design Review Board. He will serve as the Southeast Board's Local Residential Representative for a two-year term that will expire on April 4, 2010.

The Southeast Design Board is one of the seven boards, each covering a distinct Seattle geographic area. The Southeast district encompasses the Rainer Valley, Columbia Center, SODO, and Beacon Hill neighborhoods and nearby areas. Brett says “Not only has architecture and design been a major focus of my life for the last 20 years, but I’ve lived in the Beacon Hill area for the last 8 years and am raising my family there—so I’m thrilled to contribute to this neighborhood and city that I love in a meaningful way to guide it towards a positive future.”

Brett earned a Master in Architecture degree from the University of Michigan and has been practicing architecture for over 20 years and has been with EHS Design for the past 14 years. He is a licensed architect in 18 states, including Washington State, and one territory. He has a broad regional experience and professional experience working with corporations, financial institutions, utility companies, and universities. This includes working with community groups to develop affordable housing and starter homes and facilitate innovative housing solutions for the homeless.
